- You may ask, what did Harmon do for the family court to justify the permanent removal of all his children and his rights as a father completely revoked with no contact whatsoever?
 1. Harmon's two divorces and custody orders (1990 and 1998) were forced without legal representation (Harmon was incarcerated for both hearings without an attorney) on the basis that Harmon believes in the gifts of the Spirit of praying in tongues and interpretation of tongues. He talks to God and believes God talks to him.
 2. In the first divorce judgement in 1990, in spite of the fact that the court had Harmon examined by a licensed psychologist and a psychiatrist while incarcerated during the trial, and was found mentally sound; the Judge proceeded to mock Harmon all during the trial with questions like, "Mr. Wilfred, what has Jesus told you to do today?"

Sound familiar? The View's Joy Behar's recent attack on VP Pence: "It's one thing to talk to Jesus. It's another thing when Jesus talks to you. That's called mental illness, if I'm not correct, hearing voices." <http://www.breitbart.com/big-journalism/2018/02/19/pence-hits-back-joy-behar-abc-news-touch-american-people/>
 3. In the final judgement Judge Steinhardt stated that in spite of the professional opinions to the contrary, from a "layman's point of view" she considered Harmon "dangerous to himself and the public at large", and therefore suspended his parental rights indefinitely. To restore his rights and ever see his son again he must voluntarily submit himself to a psychiatric institution for at least one year. He did not, but sued the court for violation of his civil rights, unsuccessfully. This decision set a precedent.

4. This same precedent was used to revoke Harmon's parental rights with his subsequent two children in 1998, even though there continued to be no evidence to support the decision. He was unlawfully being held in a Canadian prison by order of the US justice department during this divorce, again another trial with no legal representation.
5. These human rights violations against Harmon and his children are included in his UN Petition 1638/2007 filed and accepted in 2007 from New Zealand.

EPILOGUE

- May 30, 2000, Due to the Hague Commission Extradition Treaty being violated by Canadian as well as US state and federal authorities, a US Federal Judge was forced to drop all charges against Harmon, release him from jail and seal the file to avoid a diplomatic incident.
- Response from the Canadian Department of Justice and Harmon's rebuttal

 1. Violation of Article 6: "Every human being has the right to life..." Having blown the whistle with credible evidence and result on high level US political figures, government and judicial agencies, the CIA and the complicit agencies and judiciary of the Canadian Government over judicial and political corruption including the embezzlement of billions of dollars of public funds with many of the perpetrators still at large and some in positions of political authority; Harmon is justifiably and genuinely apprehensive for his freedom and personal safety should he ever return or be returned to the United States or Canada.
 2. Further Canadian human rights violations recorded in the case file, Articles 7, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 26

United Nations Human Rights Commission Case Status against Canada

- Harmon's UN case was dismissed by request of the US on Nov 12, 2008 who continued to disallow a case to be taken that involved evidence in any way that included the US government, even though the US was not named as a defendant.
- Harmon rightfully requested, filed and served an application for Judicial Review on Canada on Jan 6, 2009 http://www.luminadiem.com/assets/files/pdfs/Jan0609_PDF_.pdf
- On Feb 13, 2009 Canada Revenue Authority served the notice of enforcement on Carolyn freezing all of her assets and thereby prohibiting her further financing the UN case against Canada.
- The UN case remains open and awaiting a response to Harmon's request for Judicial Review.

The appeal hearing on Carolyn's oppression case against her brothers is set for March 8, 2018. She is very concerned about any possible Canadian government or Dare family influence with the original decision that may also prejudice the appeal court decision.
